Unfortunately we were unable to publish every author listed above. To those who do not appear in this years' issue we sincerely encourage you to contribute again next year. We were very pleased with both the quality and quantity of the material submitted. Culture is alive at Scarborough. Thank-you again.

If you wish to retrieve your submissions they will be available from Paul Carson in the Students' Council office as of Monday February 25, 1974.

We're off to the presses.

Yours sincerely, R.N.D. Gardner, T.A. Hart.

Downchild Blues Band at Scarborough

For all those people who are bored with the current trend in music of breathing life into flogged songs better left to posterity, last Thursday's performance by Downchild provided an escape from the tender throes of Jerry Lee Bankrupt and Dion Destitute.

The concert (Pub?) was extremely well attended and the group, despite a late start, wasted no time in getting underway. They played well, with a somewhat mechanical professionalism, that for the first set separated the musicians from the audience. The second set, more lively than the first, brought the audience to their feet. The large expanse of floor conspicuously unoccupied during the first set was, by the end of the second set, alive with dancers. Dancers! Jesus! And this is Scarborough College.

The evening was, in my estimation, extremely successful. Special applause should be given to the harried employees of the Pub. The insidious rumor that Labatt's and Molson's had ceased production proved unfounded. Judging by the lines of panic-stricken beer drinkers this myth found wide acceptance.

STUDENT COUNCIL ELECTIONS

Feb. 13th. and 14th. : The Candidates Speak

This year there is approximately $55,000 in the Scarborough College Student Council budget; the following ideas represent how we wish to spend your money!

Our social activity programme will consist of monthly dances featuring different popular groups with bar and bi-weekly noon hour concerts. Forums will be held featuring prominent politicians and contraversial individuals — this could be a federal election year! Also, we will endeavour to hold the prices down in the pub as well as provide an extra pub-night i.e. Tuesday, Thursday and Fridays.

Existing student council services will be continued: duplicating room, typing room, year handbook, used bookstore, coffee shop and the Balcony Square (note: our congratulations to the editor for re-establishing Scarborough College's Student Newspaper). It is hoped that banking facilities — for students — will be provided. Also, we wish to implement the October "73" referendum strongly favouring the development of a horse riding academy on campus. Perhaps a winter skating rink as well as open barbecue pits could be established for the student village and other interested parties.

Regarding cultural affairs we intend to continue the literary magazine, Scarborough Fair. The Drama Society will receive strong support and the International Student Association will be up for revaluation. Wine and cheese parties will be given to promote harmony between all students, both part-time and full-time, and their Student Council Representatives. All the above will be considered as priorities.

BACKGROUND

Part-time Vice-President

Gary Heighington: married with two children, vice-president of SCSC 73-74 deputy commissioner of finance SCSC, part-time student member of: 1) General Policy Committee 71-74 2) Scarborough College Council 71-74 also, part-time class rep. of APUS 68-74.

Full-time Vice-President

Don Allen: first year rep. 72-73, second year rep. 73-74, member of communication commission 72-73, communication commissioner 73-74. Member of the Literary Magazine Committee.

President

John O'Donohue: Ex-Official member of SCSC executive, SCSC representative on the SAC Executive, member of SAC communication committee, SAC Delegate, U. of T. Media Development Committee.

Of the student representative bodies that exist (SCSC, APUS, SAC) our ticket has experience on all three. The O'Donohue, Allen and Heighington ticket will serve the Scarborough College Students.

NOTE: The fourth candidate for SCSC president, Scott Cavalier, and the members of his political ticket in the upcoming election failed to produce a platform statement at press time. — Editor.

Norman Rietti - President

Who is the guy? What's he done? Why bother voting for him? What does the President do anyway?

Those are the questions. These are the answers.

Contrary to the opinions of some present members of the SCSC, the Council's job is to represent student opinion in the social and academic activities of the College, with the ultimate role of coordination and communication undertaken by the President. This is the opinion of candidate Norman Rietti and these are the reasons he thinks he is capable of holding the office.

Norman has held offices of responsibility since high school, in which he was Chairman of the student governing council, culminating in his present position as President of the Scarborough College International Students' Association. Under Norman's direction, SCISA has organized for the students a number of social activities, including the enormously successful Christmas and Registration Week dances, the noon-hour concerts in the Meeting Place and the SCISA Variety Show. All of these activities depended upon the cooperation and participation of many students and if elected, Norman intends to bring these principles into action for the benefit of all Scarborough College students.

Norman's intentions can be summarized by the words involvement and participation, the final objective being a complete interaction between student body and faculty.

Which candidate should I vote for? Is one better than another? These are questions which you, will have to answer yourself. How? By facts. Facts about the candidates. Here's some facts about one candidate for President: GREG FITZ. Greg Fitz is in his third year at the College. He has been in almost all of the student organizations and an executive in many of them. He has drawn up constitutions for such organizations as Radio Scarborough and the Student Darkroom and has, on occasion, drawn up their annual budgets. Greg Fitz put together the first Scarborough College OKTOBERFEST, designed the first College Student Handbook, and was assistant to the President of the Student Council in his first two years at the College. Greg has the right ideas, the experience, and has always put the students' benefit before his own: He cares.

The elections are nearly upon the College this year before one even knows it. The matter of platforms is an interesting point. I do not feel a person can honestly give any of their opinions until he/she has discovered the concensus of the people.

Therefore I really do not have any set platform except to give the best of my ability for the job of third year representative.

This is all I want to say right now but do not forget to vote for whom ever you cast your ballot in favour of. Let us make this a year to remember. One where you had an active and interested student body.

Ian Hadden

Student Council is a serious matter. Your council representatives are the people who will decide on the allocations of your student fees, your money. The students you vote for should have experience which is connected directly with student council activities. I myself as editor of this newspaper feel that I have attained an acceptable level of this much needed experience. Your vote (s) is important, use it wisely.

corruption with corruption
you stinking radicals
with your ego tripping objections acting out scripts for attention as small children throw tantrums you demean the establishment that gives you your bloody Freedom you want to control with power to rid corruption with corruption to fight violence with destruction and your building block ideals crumble like toy houses that have no architect but only a child's construction you do not want what is right but only that which is selfish give me give me give me your blessed chant of chaos preying on the ignorant innocents like magots eat the trapped rat.
you point out the flagrancies which must be corrected let this be your only redemption but never have you learned from the past of history you children of the shephard who lost his flock while asleep and accused his neighbour where is your sense and compassion you haven't the depth to find it or the wisdom to display it all is not good all is not bad you do not recognize compromise only the path your youth perceive
you stinking radicals
of broken dreams broken loves you search through the empathy that others extend in kindness killing them when you witness truth and honesty that fears little children who like soft ice cream instant love and physical satisfaction lots of highs and despise the lows little children of the printed pages someday you'll see that evolution is a process that never fails you sad sad sibblings
a reality of reality is here if you'd just open your baby eyes you'd see the burning bodies of earthquake torn streets you'd see the blasted bodies of bombed countries
you'd see the bloated bodies of starving nations
you'd see the corrupt civilians of communities endless and you'd try to understand why you have to know why before why not solutions must come after the no but children's houses fall because tides erode the sand and radicals stink
because their diapers are seldom changed.

AUTOMOBILIA

by Frank Cohn

I have been a "CAR FREAK" ever since I was old enough to read licence plates. There are a lot of us "CAR FREAKS" around. We are normally, mild mannered, law-abiding, citizens, BUT put us behind the wheel of a motorized vehicle and we transform from the status of Dr. Jekell into that of Mr. Hyde! Look out! It is for these people that I dedicate this column.

Although I am far from being a mechanic, what I lack in know-how I make up for in practical experience. My first car was a 1966 Chevy, which I purchased at the ripe age of 17. A year later it was sold to make way for my 1940 Pontiac. This affair lasted a year as well when I decided it was time to fulfill my dreams. I sold the Pontiac and bought a 1959 Corvette. However my love affair was cut short by my entrance into university and so the 'vette was replaced by a 1970 Toyota Corona. Having now owned this car for a year, it is now up for sale in order to pay for my most recent acquisition — a fully race prepared Austin Mini Cooper "S", which I will be racing this season at Mosport. The variety of cars, and all the problems that I encountered with them, have taught me alot!

The intention of this column is to inform those of you who have problems or inquiries about your cars. For example, I will deal with — How to fix your car; the best place to have someone else fix it; how and where to purchase parts; what you should expect to pay for certain repairs; how and where to buy or sell a car; auto 'rip-offs'; driving control; How and where to get into auto racing, be it rallying or sedan or formula car racing; how to avoid getting caught by radar; and how to beat that ticket.

The Winter Carnival will soon be here and on the second of February there will be a car rally. If you aren't busy on that Saturday, join in. They are a lot of fun. I entered the one last year and had a real panic, not to mention the fact that I won it, (BLUSH!)

Any of your inquiries or questions may be left at the Balcony Square office in the Student Council office or else contact me by writing to: FRC RACING TEAM, 24 Denewood Cr., Don Mills M3B 1M5.

'B' Team Flexes Muscles

by Neil Lafleur

Scarborough College "B" team bounced back with vengence following their 3-1 loss to Law, demolishing Music 8-1 and University College 9-0. Seventeen goals in 2 games represents a considerable offensive output, the scores being indicative of the mood of the team after the loss to the yellow and black from Osgoode Hall.

The Music-Scar. match-up occurred just 4 days after the Law game. In the dressing room before the contest one could sense the eagerness and desire among the players to get on the ice and re-establish the reputation of the team after the previous loss. Music kept things close for one period and emerged trailing the big purple by only 1-0 after twenty minutes of play. However, Scarborough unleashed an attack that accounted for 7 goals in the last period, especially the last 10 minutes; it is not exaggerating to say that Scarborough poured through the Music defence like water to beat the goalie repeatedly. Paul Simmonds paced the team with three goals while Larry Stulberg, Donny Williams, Brian Stewart, Peter Tutors and Eric Cotter added singles. Rick Rutter, who has a sparkling 0.89 goals against average on the season was in the nets for Scarborough.

Not much can be said about the game against U.C. as the score speaks pretty much for itself. Suffice it to say that, in all modesty, U.C. was simply no match for the powerful purple and white from Military Trail. Leading 2-0 after the opening period, Scar. never looked back, again striking for 7 goals in the final stanza. Goal scorers for Scar. were Brian Stewart with 2 and Paul Simmonds, Larry Stulberg, Eric Cotter, Rick Rubick, Barry Williamson, Peter Tutors and Marty Nash with one goal each. Neil Lafleur recorded the shut-out being tested on no more than half a dozen shots.

Despite the two victories, Scar. is still behind both Pharmacy and Law in the standings, although it is a very close race. The next two games against New College and Management studies should not be overly difficult to win but after reading week two very big games loom on the horizon. These are against Knox and Pharmacy and in particular the Phar-Scar. showdown should be a game to remember.

All those interested in forming a Debating Society here at Scarborough College leave your name at the Post Office for Larry Sadler. Information regarding a meeting will be given out if enough people are interested.
